

CHRIS-CRAFT STINGERS

Welcome to the January, 2013 Newsletter!

Welcome to the January, 2013 edition of the chriscraftstingers.com newsletter.

The end of the year is typically sees the lowest number of visitors to the site. Because of this, I took the time to update the forums on the website. The forum software used on the website is called SMF and was created by Simple Machines Forum (www.simplemachines.org). SMF had released a major update of their forum software a while back which included more features and a cleaner look. But I hadn't had the opportunity until now to update the forums. If you haven't seen the forums in a while, have a look - I think you will like it.

The registry now has 541 boats. Of note is a 1988 311 added to the registry that is currently located in the Cayman Islands - the first Stinger I know of in the Cayman Islands. The boat looks to have been used in a commercial sport fishing business. Pictures of the boat can be seen on the galleries page of the website.

I'm looking forward to the new year. One of the major goals for the website for 2013 is to fill in more of the history of the Stingers. I've been lucky enough to talk to ex-Chris-Craft employees about the company during the 1980s, and will be talking to more during this next year. The history of the Stingers, and Chris-Craft, is a fascinating one, and I hope to share it with you.

Until next month,
Han

1983 Marine Trades Exhibit

In researching the history of the Stingers, I've been looking for any documents regarding Chris-Craft in the 1980s. These documents are not easy to come by - most of what's been written and preserved about Chris-Craft relate to their pre-1960s history. But, this December, I was lucky enough to get my hands on a copy of a media kit from Chris-Craft that was released in 1983. This media kit was produced for distribution at the National Marine Manufacturers Association International Marine Trades Exhibit hosted at Chicago's McCormick Place in September, 1983.

1983 was an exciting year for Chris-Craft. In 1981, Dick Genth and Dale Murray had purchased the boat-building business from Chris-Craft Industries. The new company was called Murray Industries. At the time of the purchase, the boat-building business of Chris-Craft had generated $26M in sales. The following year, sales had reached $95M. By the time of the Marine Trades Exhibit, Murray Industries' Chris-Craft division was at a high point in terms of sales.

The media kit from the Marine Trades Exhibit reflects the excitement of the company. The first document in the media kit details Chris-Craft's purchase of Uniflite in Bellingham, WA for $6.4M. The stated reason for purchasing Uniflite was to increase Chris-Craft's product line in the 46'-66' convertibles and cruisers space. The Uniflite production facility in Bellingham eventually built some of the Stinger 415s.

In a document from the media kit titled "Chris-Craft Dealing from a Position of Strength", Chris-Craft details its expansion of the Bradenton, FL plant. Chris-Craft spent $500,000 to add 20,000 sq ft to the plant and hired 50-100 new employees at the time. The Bradenton plant would go on to build the majority of Stingers that were produced by Chris-Craft.

Another document in the media kit was titled "Chris-Craft Competitive in High-Performance and Ski Boats". Chris-Craft brought 18 models to the exhibit - the largest showcase in the exhibit. Two of these boats were Stingers - a 390 X and a 312 SL (imagine seeing a new 390 X in the exhibition hall!). This media kit document describes how the 390 X had won Powerboat Magazine's award two years in a row as the best designed offshore boat. More importantly, however, the document also describes how Chris-Craft was getting serious about high-performance boating. Specifically, it states that Chris-Craft was the first to write a $25,000 check required to enter Powerboat Magazine's Golden Gate to Spruce Goose Chase - a race that was won by a Stinger 312 Competition Series boat.

The media kit is also interesting for what it does not include. Readers of this newsletter will recall that some of the 1984 390 Xs mysteriously have hull numbers that start with CCT. CCT is the code for Chris-Craft's Gallipolis, OH plant - a plant that was closed in the 1970s. The media kit includes a document that lists all of the Chris-Craft plants as of September, 1983. The plants listed include those in Bradenton, FL, Holland, MI, and Goshen, IN. But there are no plants listed for Ohio. So the mystery of why a small number of 390 Xs have hull numbers that begin with CCT continues.

The media kit was an interesting find and has given me a unique insight into the Chris-Craft corporation in 1983. I hope to find more such documents in the future.

1987 Chris Craft Stinger 42ft. Mercruiser twin 496 engines, Myco trailer, deck awning, head, 3 batteries and fiberglass hull. We purchased the boat as a hull then totally restored it about 10 years ago. About 6 years ago we installed two new 496 magnum merc cruiser engines with currently about 200 miles. We rewired the entire boat about 3 years ago. This season we replaced the manifolds So the boat has been maintained and is in good working order I would characterize the finishes of the boat as "worn around the edges" but as hinges and snaps corrode we replace them The boat has a working head & shower Galley/ microwave/ref/sink TV stereo/cd/sat system/ ipod dock deck compass GPS

Kind of rough 1987 Chris Craft Stinger 222, drive in the middle, sportboat. Comes with a 350 SBC with ProCharger on it, also has IMCO powerflow aluminum Manifolds, still needs some assembly to finish the blower install, engine has been sitting a while and is essentially a stock 350 with 1.7 ratio rockers on it, the exhaust system and the Supercharger. Boat has a GenII alpha drive, and is on a trailer. Has rotten Stringers in engine room and needs transom work. It's pretty cool when it used to run, but I don't really see the time to get it going again. really just need to clean out projects. Blower, Engine, Drive, Transom assy, and trailer should be worth the money and with a little work could be all together for a good boat.

Asking Price: $3,500

Chris Craft stinger 260. Needs paint and some interior work. Both Mercruiser 260 350 Chevrolet engines run. Both Alpha One outdrives need to have the bellows replaced. Shoreland'r trailer with brand new bearings, hubs and electric brakes on all 4 wheels, new lights, decent tires with 2 matching spares. I have never had this boat in the water. I bought as a non running project a few years ago and did not finish. All that needs to be done to put it in the water is the outdrives sealed and a shift cable.

70 MPH boat, no trailer, boat only, twin raw water cooled 350's both run great, both need thermostat housing they leak a little, starboard one may need a carb rebuild. the boat as a hole needs some minor work including both lower shifter cables are junk, and the back seat upholstery is crummy. I've been debating on parting this out or repairing it, i found another project for $1500 I'm more interested in so the price is firm or I'll deal with it in the spring. If I can sell parts for at least $1000 you don't have to take the whole boat. $600 each complete motor, $250 each complete gear-case and other parts by a case by case basis.
